The first year Full-time students will register for SW542 Field Practice, section 003, credit hours 3, Instructor: Scott Burcham.

The College of Social Work (CSW) uses two unique venues to offer online courses. Courses that are designated online are generally offered on a flex-time basis. You may access the course and participate using an educational management program, Blackboard and its discussion board, at your convenience.

*CENTRA online courses are offer via the internet as well, but are offered in real time. You are expected to attend class via your computer equipped with a stick microphone (approximately $10.00 at either Wal-Mart or Radio Shack) and a high-speed modem at a predetermined time on designated days. Note if your computer does not have speakers than a headset ($25.00) with a microphone will suffice.

A third teaching modality employed by the CSW is interactive class offerings. Interactive classes are conducted in real time (the same designated date and pre-determined time). A professor teaches across at least two campuses maybe three. The professor is generally located on one of the two campuses with a cohort of students in front of him/her. The students who are not at the same campus as the instructor can see the instructor and students at the other locations on monitors. Students are able to communicate easily with the instructor via microphones in the interactive classrooms.
