COURSE OUTLINE

Course Requirements:

Students are expected to prepare for class by reading assigned readings prior to class and actively participate in class activities and discussions using critical thinking skills. Regular class attendance provides continuity to learning and integration of the course content. Participation in class discussion and activities will enhance both individual and group learning. Understanding and conveying the interviewing skills (Hepworth text chapters 5, 6 and 7) and the assessment process (Hepworth text chapters 8 and 9) are critical for your successful completion of this course.

Week 1. Introduction to social work practice and overview of the course. Review course content, term paper criteria, grading, & library reserve information.

WEEKLY ACTIVITY – One person will report on each reading from the listed articles, and another person (responder) will ask questions followed by a large group discussion. You are required to present a brief overview of this article, its main points, and the importance to social work if any. The responder will be required to ask at least one thought provoking question or concern regarding the reading. See sign-up sheet.

Assignment 1 Term paper criteria

Your paper should address that part of social work practice that you believe to be the most difficult for you to perform.

A central part of the paper should be candid, open examination of how your own perceptions, attitudes, values, experiences, emotions, and stereotypes may influence your ability to perform this particular aspect of social work practice. Among examples discussed in class are topics such as:

- Resistance to engagement: open/subtle hostility from clients
- Cultural variance of clients and workers: race, status, political, sexual expression differences etc.
- Clients who evoke images from one's past: parents, adolescence, siblings, peers, childhood, etc.
- Special populations: abusers, handicapped, gay, aged, mandated, women, men, children, ethnic minorities, elderly, etc.
- Others you may desire to select (Please discuss these with me prior to doing this assignment)

After thoroughly defining and describing the practice aspect you select, examine the roots of your perceived difficulty both by reviewing your own involvement and by reviewing the salient professional literature on the subject. The final section should be a thoughtful description of the personal plan you have devised to address this perceived deficit in your professional repertoire (while in the CSW program). The usually accepted standards of written graduate academic work should apply to this paper including substance, organization, clarity, citation, and originality. The paper should be 8-10 pages in length and use APA guidelines for formatting. You should write in first person and it is helpful to include a personal dimension of how this problem/situation may have somehow touched your life. Grading is based on grammar, appropriate exploration of the selected topic, use of the literature review, and soundness of your plan. The paper is due the week of October 2nd. See sample papers posted online from ideas past students.

Assignment #2 Client Assessment Presentation

This assignment has two parts 1) complete a thorough assessment to be handed in at the time of the presentation, and a video or role play presentation demonstrating clinician skills.

1) Assess a client (real or imaginary) using techniques discussed in class and in the Hepworth book (Ch 8, 9, 10). The assessment should include environment, systems information, cultural contexts, strengths, psychosocial deficits, mental status information, previous mental health history if known, and a plan to address the problem situation that includes both short-term and long-term goals. The length should be approximately 3 pages and samples are available on UTOline. 2) This part consists of a 10 minute presentation. You can use either a video or a role-play, and you must be the clinician. Your client can be another student or someone outside of CSW. The role-play/video will demonstrate both general and specific skills covered in class; example(s): general skills include rapport building, conveying empathy, and specific skills are using additive empathy (interpretation), and confrontation (you must demonstrate at least one interpretation and one confrontation). Digital Camera equipment is available, and a room will be set up for videotaping (sign up sheet will be provided) and you need to furnish a VHS tape for your use. Performance feedback will be provided by both students and the instructor, grading will be recorded by the instructor.
