Course Format and Assignments

The course will include lectures by the instructor and guest presenters, class discussions, exercises, videos, and student presentations. Course assignments are designed to build and synthesize critical thinking, knowledge and skills over the course of the semester. Late assignments will be marked down. Requests for exceptions must be discussed with the instructor before an assignment is due. Please note that there will be, WITH NO EXCEPTION, no late assignments excused because of computer or printer problems. Written materials are to be typewritten or word processed, and double-spaced. APA format should be used unless otherwise specified by the instructor. Students will be evaluated in three assignment areas and class participation. Criteria for the organizational analysis and semester project assignments are included in the syllabus following the course outline and session readings. The instructor reserves the right to add in-class quizzes examinations during the course of the semester to assess students' mastery of readings and other course material.

A written organizational analysis	50%
A semester project	30%
Class participation	20%

The grading scale is:

94 - 100 A Superior performance

90 - 93 B+ better than satisfactory performance

82 - 89 B satisfactory performance

79 - 81 C+ less than satisfactory performance

72 - 78 C performance well below the standard expected of graduate students

67 - 71 D clearly unsatisfactory performance, cannot be used to satisfy degree requirements
< 67 F extremely unsatisfactory performance, cannot be used to satisfy degree requirements (descriptions are from the UT Graduate School catalog)

Course Expectations

Regular and on-time class attendance is considered professional behavior. Students are expected to discuss absences with the instructor in advance. More than 2 unexcused absences or tardiness may result in the markdown of the final grade. Students are expected to complete and think about assigned readings for preparation for each class section, participate in class discussions and activities using class readings and field and life experience, complete all assignments on time, and enjoy some of the learning at least some of the time.

Class participation is graded on the basis of sharing, concern, and commitment for what goes on in class. Written assignments are evaluated on the basis of their organization (i.e., conforming with the outline given above), clarity, internal consistency, and flow of information. You are free to have discussions with me, anytime and as many times as you want, in person or via phone, e-mail, and fax communications, in relation to any of your assignments and your progress in the course.

For in-person discussions, please call me directly to schedule an appointment. You are very much encouraged to make appointments with me, ahead of time if possible, for me to fully attend to your time requests.

SW 504 Community Practice III
Organizational Analysis Assignment
Paula D. Foster, LCSW
Spring, 2005

This assignment is a written analysis of certain aspects of a local organization. Most students will find it convenient to use the organization in which you are doing your field placement and to integrate this assignment into your practicum learning objectives. You may use another organization but coordinate this with the instructor.

The assignment is to be double-spaced with 10 - 15 pages. Any text over the 15 pages maximum will not be read. This assignment (50% of the course grade) is due on March 16, 2005.

The framework for the analysis draws primarily from Netting et al.'s (1998) Framework for Analyzing a Human Service Organization (277-280). The specific Tasks to analyze are listed below. In your analysis, demonstrate your comprehension of organizational concepts covered in the readings and class.

Remember that agencies often undergo rapid change in their internal and external environments. Such change or other dynamics may affect the type and degree of information accessible to you. The information you gather is to be used for educational purposes in this class only. The paper should be written to protect the confidentiality of individuals and your agency's boundaries. Coordinate your work closely with your field instructor, and contact the course instructor if any questions arise.

Draw on agency personnel and documents for material. Please interview at least one person in each of the following organizational positions: 1) supervisor, 2) manager or administrator, 3) budget/accounting personnel or financial committee member, and, 4) if possible, a board member. In your analysis, distinguish between information (facts) and opinions provided by your informants and yourself.

Each document or set of documents (see Netting et al., 1998, for examples) that you attach to your paper, and the strategic inter-organizational map you will create, should be attached as appendices to the end of the paper. Attachments are not part of the 15-page paper maximum.

Use Netting et al.'s (1998) Task number headings to organize your report. Please be sure to add page numbers to your report. Overall paper organization and structure, use of appendices, grammar, and APA format are considered in grading.

ORGANIZATIONAL ANALYSIS PART ONE: INTRODUCTION

Identify the organization you will analyze regarding this assignment. Identify (by agency position, not by name) individuals from whom you collected your data for the report. List the types of agency documents used, and other data sources you used. If you can't get agency documents or meet with key informants, state so and speculate briefly as to why you think this is so. If you have difficulty in getting documents or contact with key informants, contact the instructor to discuss your situation.

Identify, very briefly, the social problem and target population that will be the focal point of your analysis. Because organizations can be very complex and deal with many different issues, you probably will want to select one type of social problem and target population (e.g. care for chronically mentally ill elderly, sexual abuse of children, etc.) to use as a focal point for this assignment. For example, when you develop a map of strategic organizations, you will then only discuss organizations strategic to that problem and population.

PART TWO: ORGANIZATIONAL COMPONENTS

Your analysis should respond to each of the bulleted questions identified in the Tasks. Use Netting et.al's (1998) Task number headings to organize your writing. A useful technique in responding to the items is to summarize your answer to the question, then give specific examples to illustrate your answer.

FOCUS A

Task 1: Identify sources of cash and noncash revenues

Task 5: Identify other important organizations in the task environment

Task 6: Assess the agency's relationship to other important organization in the task environment

Create a computer-generated map of organizations strategic to your organization (dept., unit of analysis) regarding the social problem and target population on which you focus.

FOCUS B

Task 7: Identify corporate authority and mission

Task 9: Understand organizational and program structure

PART THREE: EXTERNAL INFLUENCES AND TRENDS

1. Identify and describe 2 influences external to your organization (e.g. a social policy, change in funding sources, etc.) currently affecting how your organization is able to serve its clients. Identify one positive and one negative influence

2. Identify and describe 2 emerging societal or organizational trends that you and your informants think will affect your organization in the future

PART FOUR: PROCESS REFLECTIONS, LEARNINGS

Reflect on what you have learned (or relearned, or unlearned) about how organizations function. Please note that this section of the paper is a reflection on your future practice, not that of the organization you reviewed for this assignment. Based on your experiences with this analysis, critically assess what you, as a professional social worker, might do differently in your future work within organizations. Include in your assessment a discussion of how you might approach organizationally related work in regard to social work values and ethics, issues of diversity, justice, and work with vulnerable populations.

Finally, complete the one-page Student Evaluation (see next page) of this assignment. You do not need to identify yourself on the evaluation form but it must be handed in for the assignment to be complete.

Semester Project Assignment
Paula D. Foster, LCSW
Spring, 2005
Semester Project

Students must complete a semester project related to macro practice. Each student may choose from the alternatives listed below or may propose another alternative for the instructor's approval. All selections must be submitted in writing to the instructor by the fourth week of class. Projects may be completed individually or in a group. Alternative suggestions:

1. Participate in NASW Social Work Day on the Hill project that will be discussed in class session 3. A written essay of the experience is required.
2. Write a paper on some aspect of macro practice. The topic must be approved by the instructor by the third week of class.
3. Develop a 40-minute presentation (presentation and class participation) for the class on some aspect of macro practice. The instructor must approve the topic in advance.

Additional criteria for each alternative will be handed out and discussed in class.
