Program Mission:

The BSSW program at the University of Tennessee exists to fulfill a need for disciplined, highly educated and trained generalist social workers to help people improve their social functioning in a technologically complex, culturally diverse, and rapidly changing world without borders. There is a focus on the reciprocal relationships between persons and their environments. Social workers are doers; they are problem-solvers who are able to intervene in multiple-level systems and perform various professional roles. Their actions are guided and informed by a broad knowledge-base, code of ethics, and professional values. Social workers are educated and trained to do things right as well as to do the right thing.

The mission of the BSSW program is to develop generalist social workers who are strategic thinkers, life-long learners and opinion shapers. The knowledge-base, skills, and values necessary for generalist practice are taught in an environment that fosters professional development, critical thinking, and leadership and prepares students to take appropriate action guided by the best available scientific evidence. We are dedicated to preparing practitioners for the challenges of today's complex pluralistic world. Since the amount of knowledge doubles approximately every five years, what is taught today may soon be obsolete. Our challenge, therefore, lies in the on-going development and implementation of a curriculum that prepares and energizes students for generalist practice today and in the future.

Program Goals:

Provision of education and training that enable students to become generalist social work practitioners who:

- are committed to advancing social and economic justice and the principles, values, and ethics that guide the social work profession;
- are committed to evidence-based practice
- are grounded in systems theory and operate within a person-in-the-environment framework;
- use the problem-solving process to intervene in multiple-level client systems;
- have an understanding of human diversity, special populations, and domestic and international challenges, that informs practice interventions;
- use critical thinking, evaluative skills, and leadership skills to address the needs of a complex, changing global world; and
- are committed to continuous development of professional self.

You may reserve meeting time with Dr. Craun using the “sign-up” sheets posted outside of her office door. You may also email questions, poster drafts, and data.

Required Texts:

Required articles will be posted on Blackboard for you to download and read.

Blackboard:

This course uses Blackboard for announcements, readings and grade recording. Please check the site regularly.

Assignments:

Attendance and active participate in the seminar is required. The seminar grade will be based on the following:

1. Portfolio

Each student will prepare a comprehensive portfolio according to the guidelines that will be provided in class. The completed portfolio is due at the beginning of class on March 25th. Late portfolios will be penalized 10% per business day after the due date. Sample portfolios are on reserve in Dr. Craun’s office for your review.

2. Research Project and Exhibition

All students are required to enter their research project into the University of Tennessee’s Exhibition of Undergraduate Research and Creative Achievement (EURCA). All projects should have been started in the fall semester. Form A and the research agreement form are required to conduct your research and present in the exhibition. This semester, students will be required to develop an abstract, complete the Exhibition’s “intent to participate form”, finish the research project and develop a poster, and attend the EURCA on Wednesday, April 2nd and Thursday, April 3rd. ATTENDANCE AT BOTH EVENTS IS REQUIRED. Professional attire and demeanor is expected. Additional information on the Exhibition of Undergraduate Research Fair will be distributed and discussed in class.

3. Resume/Job Search Interview

Each student will develop a professional resume to be included in his or her portfolio. Additionally, each student will sign up to meet with Shawna Hembree to practice interviewing for a position. Your resume will be submitted to Shawna at that time. In addition, you need to bring a job posting (the actual text of the posting) to the interview with Shawna. This needs to be a job that you are truly interested in obtaining, so that the interview with Shawna will be more valuable to you.

4. Class Presentations

Each student is required to give a brief (10-15 minutes) oral presentation to the class related to their research project. The presentation will provide an overview of your study and sample, research methodology, results and implications for social work practice. These presentations are intended to prepare students for the EURCA.

5. Review Assignment

Students will be divided into small groups and assigned a curricular area to review for the comprehensive exam. Groups will work together to review particular courses in the major and to prepare a study guide highlighting important topics and concepts. Each group’s study guide must be put into one document and then emailed to Dr. Craun by February 26th. Dr. Craun will then post each study guide to BlackBoard for use by all students.

6. Comprehensive Exam

All students will complete a comprehensive exam of multiple choice questions which cover course materials from all of the BSSW courses. This exam will be given on April 8th and all students must be present for the exam. In addition to focusing on the study guides prepared for this course, students are also strongly encouraged to review all texts and reserved readings that have been required reading for them in the social work major to date in preparation for this exam.

The course grade will be computed as follows:

Portfolio (due March 25 th)...	30%
Research Project and EURCA...	30% (total)
Intent to participate form (due February 19th)	2%
Abstract (Draft due January 29th; Final due February 19 th)	3%

Extra Credit:

It is the BSSW Program’s expectation that all social work majors will participate in the BSSW Student Social Work Organization (BSSW-SWO) or the University of Tennessee student Chapter of the National Association of Black Social Workers (NABSW-UT). All students who are enrolled in SW 460 are welcome. The BSSW-SWO meets every Tuesday from 11:10 -12:25 in Room 209, Henson Hall. This time slot is built into the class schedule as a lab. Given the time of the meetings, students are encouraged to bring their lunch. The NABSW-UT meetings are held on Fridays at 6:00 PM.

The BSSW-SWO and NABSW-UT are student organizations that provide an excellent opportunity for leadership development, community and university service, the enhancement of group skills, research opportunities, and socialization. These organizations and its activities are viewed as an extension of the BSSW curriculum.

Students in this class will have the opportunity to earn five (5) final grade points for extra credit by attending and participating in the BSSW-SWO and/or NABSW-UT this semester. Your attendance and participation must be documented. Attendance will be taken at each meeting. You must attend seven (7) or more BSSW-SWO meetings during the term. Also, you must participate in one of the organization’s standing committees. NABSW-UT participants must attend five (5) meetings, participate in one of the standing committees, and participate in at least two community service activities. Both attendance and participation are required for extra credit. You will need to complete a form listing your activities in the organization throughout the term. The form will be signed by a committee chairperson and the faculty liaison to the BSSW-SWO and NABSW-UT. The completed, signed form must be handed in to the instructor one week prior to the end of class.

Without the signed form verifying your attendance and participation, the extra credit will not be provided.
